Clients We Served,

What Our Clients Say about us

Lindsey Sterling

We had a slow start in getting our mixed environment of physical servers and Hyper-V instances. The deployment and support team worked well with us and at this point we are just about there. We like their Flexibility in scheduling and having both Disaster recovery on site and in the cloud. Make sure you spell out your environment and expectations to them clearly so they can take care of your problem well.

Alexis Correa

We use ERP service to create requests for customer orders. We create new customers, customer's orders, supply orders; create purchase orders, manage product inventories, and invoices. Thanks to this software we can have details of all the requests from the customers, from the orders to invoices, deliveries, credit notes and all the transaction history made in our company.
